- 2 (B) Promotion — “Promotion” represents a valid English structural expansion noun denoting rank elevation.
- 3 (A) Interview — “Interview” is an authentic lexical entry specifying an evaluative corporate conversation layout.
- 4 (B) Employee — “Employee” maps as a baseline functional vocabulary noun representing hired personnel blocks.
- 5 (A) Management — “Management” tracks as an official English noun referencing supervisory infrastructure systems.
- 6 (B) Opportunity — “Opportunity” is a real, properly structured English abstract noun mapping advantageous structural parameters.
- 7 (A) Leadership — “Leadership” is a legitimate noun indicating authoritative or guidance capacities within corporate environments.
- 8 (A) Workplace — “Workplace” is an established vocabulary entry compound noun detailing local workspace configurations.
- 9 (B) Experience — “Experience” is a valid English noun referencing accumulated skill benchmarks.
- 10 (A) Productivity — “Productivity” is a standard derived noun recording output efficiency ratios.

Section B

- 1 (B) effectively — The structural dynamic verb “communicate” requires direct qualification by a functional performance modifier adverb (“effectively”).
- 2 (B) performance — The composite single-possessor descriptor phrase “employee” requires a final objective noun value (“performance”) as its complement node.
- 3 (A) job — The singular indefinite article marker requires initialization of a standard singular base count noun (“job”).
- 4 (B) collaboration — The additive coordinator link “and” connects matched noun structural assignments, requiring the nominal configuration format “collaboration.”
- 5 (A) success — The phrase “career” modifies a trailing nominal asset complement node directly, matching with the concrete abstract entity noun “success.”

Section C

- 1(A) The passage highlights continuous professional skill learning as the core operational mechanism driving long-term career growth parameters.
- 2(B) Adaptability is specifically cataloged within the direct textual criteria of highly valued workplace employee traits.

MODEL WRITING RESPONSE

Question 1

In my opinion, the most important qualities for career success are communication, adaptability, and dedication. Good communication skills help individuals work effectively with colleagues and clients. Adaptability is also essential because workplaces constantly change due to new technologies and business practices. Dedicated employees are more likely to achieve their goals because they consistently work hard and continue learning. In addition, problem-solving and teamwork skills are highly valued by employers. While technical knowledge is important, personal qualities often determine long-term success. Therefore, developing both professional and interpersonal skills is essential for building a successful career.

MODEL SPEAKING RESPONSE

Question 1

A career I would like to pursue in the future is marketing management. I am interested in understanding customer behavior and creating strategies that help businesses grow. Marketing combines creativity, communication, and analytical thinking, which makes it an exciting field. To succeed in this career, strong communication skills, leadership abilities, and knowledge of digital marketing are important. I would also need to stay updated with market trends and consumer preferences. I believe this career would allow me to contribute to business growth while continuously learning new skills and ideas.
